Together, for a seamless journey

Connections, convenience, and choice are more important than ever when travelling. So, it's the perfect time to reintroduce you to the incredible partnership of Air France and KLM with Delta Air Lines and Virgin Atlantic. Our partnership gives your customer the most convenient flight schedules and connections plus plenty of loyalty benefits.

With our 11 hubs and complementary flight schedules, we ensure seamless and quick connections to over 375 destinations in our extensive joint network. This year, new routes to Austin and Dallas, Texas, and the service between Paris-CDG and New York-Newark, have been added to our network.

When it comes to business traveler benefits, there's so much to be excited about. We have joint corporate agreements and combinable fares across our airlines. Frequent flyers can earn Miles and tier points across all four airlines – giving your customer the opportunity to enjoy more rewards and reach a higher status more quickly. Eligible Elite members are also recognized on all flights with priority check in. And, with Virgin Atlantic joining the SkyTeam family in 2023, there will be even more benefits offered to your customers.

Whichever airline your customers choose to fly, you can be sure they'll enjoy award-winning service throughout their entire journey.

Introduction of Group Seat Block

Do your customers need to travel with a group? Then, we have some good news to share. The Air France and KLM Group Sales Desk can now support you in making a Group Seat Block (GSB) for group bookings without the need of passenger names or tickets being issued in advance.

This is a paid service that allows you to select standard seats onboard Air France and KLM flights and is only available for your customers' group bookings. The price and the refund conditions are the same as for other customers who book a standard seat with a non-refundable ticket. Once booked, the GSB is non-refundable and non-changeable in case of voluntary cancellation or change.

If the booking is made with the GSB seat option, customers keep the possibility to book a standard seat or other paid seat options. With the introduction of the GSB functionality for group reservations, standard seat selection is now a paid option for all passenger types.
