

Changes to Qantas' COVID-19 vaccination requirements

Effective 19 July 2022, Qantas no longer requires passengers travelling on international flights operated by the Qantas Group to be fully vaccinated against COVID-19. This change is in response to the Australian Government's removal of the COVID-19 vaccination requirement for international travelers arriving into Australia.

Filling of Digital Passenger Declaration (DPD) is also no longer required before travel.

Passengers will no longer need to show proof of COVID-19 vaccination or DPD to board their flight unless it's a country-specific requirement, so we recommend passengers check specific requirements before travel.

For travel to and within Australia, masks are still required on domestic flights and where government regulations say they must be worn.

Australian E-Visa hardcopy requirement

Passengers travelling on Qantas international flights from India are requested to carry their Australian e-visa printout, which is a mandatory requirement.

For a hassle free and on time boarding, kindly advise passengers to carry a print out of their Australian e-visa copy.

Kind regards,

GSA Qantas Airways Limited
